CULTURAL NOTES

SITUATION

Roses do best in an open sunny spot in well drained soil. When grown in shady areas they are more prone to fungal attack and will have less flowers.

SOIL

The best soils are medium to heavy clay loams but roses can be successfully grown in many soil types with some extra attention. In sandy soils, the addition of large quantities of compost and animal manure is beneficial.

PLANTING AND CARE

Prepare the area well prior to planting. Mix manure or compost with your soil prior to planting. This is especially important where roses have been dug out and replaced. When planting in shallow soils, do not dig the holes too deep. Rather, raise the level of the beds to ensure good drainage. Dig a hole sufficiently large enough to take the roots, which should be placed downwards and outwards over a small mound of soil at the bottom of the hole. A hole about 20-25 cm deep and wide will normally be sufficient.

We suggest adding Chandlers Organic Compost to the soil and mix well. Ensure the graft or bud union of bush and climbing roses remains about 5cm above soil level.

Water in well with Seasol or Plant Starter and firm the soil gently. These products stimulate root growth and minimise transplant shock. Apply fortnightly for at least 4 weeks. Continued use of Seasol into spring will also improve drought hardiness for summer. For people in dry areas, we recommend using water saving crystals or Seasol Planting Gel when planting as well.

Apply a rose food at the beginning of spring and again in late summer. Mulch well leading into summer, leaving a gap around the trunk. Ensure the new roses get at least two deep soakings of water per week through the first summer.

SPACING

Hybrid Tea Bush	Average 1 metre apart
Floribunda	Average 0.6 - 1 metre
Standards	Average 1.3 metres
Climbing	Average 2.5 - 5 metres
David Austin	Average 1 metre

Whilst Chandlers Nursery will take every precaution to ensure that our roses are true to name and label, we cannot be responsible for errors outside our control. We will cheerfully undertake to replace wrongly labelled roses where possible, or to substitute if necessary.

To ensure the largest of range of roses as possible for our customers, we order our plants from a number of different suppliers. Therefore, the availability of all roses listed in this catalogue is subject to delivery by our suppliers and such deliveries will occur intermittently from early May through to the end of July.

Weeping standard rose varieties are not mentioned in this catalogue. We order these on a request basis. A number of varieties are available and on two different graft heights (1.2m & 1.8m).

Similarly, if there is a variety of rose that you require and is not listed in our catalogue, please enquire as we may be able to order it for you.
